

Congratulations!

You're ready to install your Enphase Home Energy Solution.
So, what's the last piece of the power puzzle?

Your investment on the roof needs its control equipment to be housed professionally, and must be electrically sound.

We've got the answer.

Demand quality.
Demand iBoards.

Available through www.iboards.net.au
Ph (02) 9131 2553

When you choose an iBoard Enphase Solar Distribution Board, you're making a quality choice for your home and your family.

Here's why they're so clever:

- All the Enphase 'brains' control equipment are in the one location - free from dust and the elements.
- Your Enphase system will be battery-ready for future battery installations.
- It allows you, the homeowner, to inspect the workings of your solar system in an easy-to-access and safe area.
- It allows your electrician easy access to the components of your solar system in one location, saving valuable time onsite.
- The neat and elegant installation complements the exterior of your home.
- iBoards are built for Australian weather conditions - in Australia.